We hear now and again of some merchant who is making a stir in his town. Peo le flock to his store. He "gets the trade." Look into his methods and you'll find that while he may not be noticeably better than his merchant neighbors in most big things, he has taken care to outstrip them in the matter of thoroughly advertising his goods through every season of the year.

GORDON'S LEAP.

How the Scene of the Versailles Lynching Was Named.

The scene of the Versailles lynching Tuesday night has long been known as Gordon's leap. A travelling man relates the following story as to how it received the name.

A number of years ago Jonathan Gordon, who was yet young in his profession in the study of medicine, was apprehended while robbing a grave of a corpse. Indignation grew strong and a crowd gathered to "wait" on him. He was forced to the top of a steep and high cliff, overhanging a valley by trees and bushes in his effort to escape the surging mob. Realizing the danger in store for him if he was captured, he leaped from the cliff and caught in the branches of a tree below. The mob searched for him in all directions failing to find dead or crippled beneath the tree where he was seen to strike. Gordon remained in the tree until the mob dispersed and then cautiously climbed down and unceremoniously left that part of the country.

"He went to Indianapolis and took up the study of law and at the time of his death about a year ago was, rapidly reaching the distinction of being one of the very best lawyers in the state."

New kraut and pickles at Hoadley's.

The temperature at noon today was seventy degrees, twenty-three degrees lower than at the same hour yesterday.

For an elegant cut or roast of pork, beef, lamb, veal, mutton, boiled ham, also sausage and dressed poultry go to Leidors.

Mort Crabb, one of our best bakers, proposes to bake a very fine cake of large value to be presented to the most popular young lady at the street fair. There are already many guesses as to who the fortunate young lady may be.

Lightning Struck.

During the rain and thunder storm last evening the residence of Mr. Elizabeth Lewis, corner of Oak and Pine streets, was struck by lightning.

A portion of the roof and some weatherboarding were splintered. The plastering was badly knocked off. That the house was not fired is miraculous.

Drought Broken.

The people are rejoicing on account of the long drought coming to an end by a timely rain that set in last evening and continued part of the night. The fall here was just 1 1/2 inches, which many farmers tell us will put the ground in fine condition to plow for wheat.

When a railroad company starts to lay 300 or 400 miles of new 85 pound steel rail as the B. and O. is doing, it costs money for ties, spikes, splice bars, etc. The B. and O. has adopted certain track standards, and according to the book it takes 133.57 tons of 85 pound rail for one mile of track. Ties are laid 24 inches from center to center, making 2641 per mile. Four spikes per tie take for 30 kegs, or 10,800 spikes weighing 6,000 pounds, or three tons. In each mile of 30 foot rail are 352 complete joints, requiring 704 splice bars and 1,408 bolts. The B. and O. uses what is known as the "Continuous Rail Joint Splice Bar," which is supposed to prevent low joints, the bane of a trackman's life.

For several years the Co-operative building and loan association has been doing business in Seymour, and it is recognized as one of the solid institutions of the city. The money is invested at home where each stockholder can see for himself that the securities held by the association are all right. Many of our citizens have paid for their homes easily through the association and many others have saved a small amount each week that will furnish them a comfortable sum when their series expires. On Monday Oct. 3 the association will open Series M when all who wish to begin the plan of weekly saving will be enabled to do so. Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yields to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at W. F. Peter's drug store.

John R. McLean's Great Newspaper.

Without a single exception, there is beyond doubt no greater or more popular newspaper in the United States than the Cincinnati Enquirer; and a more successful publisher than its proprietor, Mr. John R. McLean. The old-time prices for the Daily Enquirer have been maintained, and its circulation largely increased each year; hard times and cheaper journals failing to arrest its onward march and high appreciation of the public for its true worth and merit.

The Weekly Enquirer at beginning of the campaign year was offered at 50 cents a year, and its circulation increased by the addition of over 200,000 new subscribers; the most substantial and coveted testimonial a publisher could desire.

When asked for the secret of such success, Mr. McLean frankly answers: The Enquirer has no opinions to force upon its patrons, it simply prints the facts and tells the truth that the reader may form his own opinions. By maintaining the price of the paper, more news and greater variety can be furnished, and every class of business interests catered to, which a cheaper journal cannot afford.

The very liberal support given the Enquirer by the public at large, makes incumbent upon the management to serve it faithfully with zeal and enterprise in minor matters as well as those of greater magnitude.

And Once She Rallied at Clubs. She sighed deeply as she picked up her engagement book and began idly turning over the leaves.

"I'm utterly worn out," she said, "and tomorrow afternoon our Cinch club meets too."

"Better resign," he returned.

"Oh, I couldn't do that if I want to be in the swim," she protested. "Besides I enjoy the Cinch club more than I do the Whist club, and if I felt that I could resign from anything I would leave that—or the Shakespeare club. I do get awfully tired of Shakespeare sometimes."

"I should think you would," he answered.

"The Physical Culture club worried me at times too," she added. "I think it calls for a little too much exertion from one who has so much else to do, but it's all the rage now. Then there's the Cooking club, and the Literary club, and the Political Science club, and the Bicycle club, and the Dress Reform club, and the Dancing club, and the two charity associations, and the gymnasium class, and the Debating club, and the Sewing society. I'm beginning to think there are too many."

"On the contrary," he replied thoughtfully, "I think you need one more, and I would suggest a hickory club."

She didn't speak to him for half a day, but it is a matter of record that she resigned from several clubs.—Chicago Post.

Rabbits That Climb.

A correspondent writes to the London Field that while he was hunting rabbits with ferrets in January he found rabbits on three occasions in willow trees which overhung the water of a mill stream. The miller said that it was not an unusual circumstance. Some months ago The Field told of other rabbits which had been shot, like raccoons or opossums, out of trees in England. In recent years cases of rabbits in trees have been reported with increasing frequency. From Australia has come the most remarkable story of rabbits as climbers. The only way in which rabbits could be kept out of certain tracts of land in Australia was by the building of wire fences about them, the fences having meshes so small that the beasts could not crawl through and being so high that they could not jump over. The rabbits have claved at the wires until their nails gradually have become hooked. Some of the rabbits learned to scale the fences, and then great additional expense was necessary, for the top of the fence had to be bent over like a J upside down, with the hook out, so that the rodents could not get over the top. Australian rabbits are said to be learning to climb trees for the leaves.

ONE OF TWO WAYS.

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble or some sort. The error is easily made and may be as easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty-four hours; sediment or settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. If you need any medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail. Mention the Republican and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

TRICKY BABY PETE.

HE COMMITTED THE THEFTS FOR WHICH A MAN WAS DISCHARGED.

A Midnight Adventure In the Winter Quarters of an Elephant Herd—How Sly Pete Got Away From His Stake and Stole a Bag of Oats.

Pete is the baby elephant of one of the big circus herds. During his confinement in winter quarters he played a trick on his keeper, which the man relates as follows:

"Pete is a tiny little fellow and does not weigh more than 600 or 800 pounds, but I actually believe he would eat as many pounds of oats if he had access to them. The elephant house was dark one night, and I supposed every one of the animals was sound asleep, when my attention was attracted by a subdued, rasping noise, apparently coming from the farther end of the big herd. Instead of walking down in front of them all, I went around and came in at the other end. Hiding behind some piles of straw, I peered cautiously over to where the little rascal was chained, and there he was, carefully lifting his stake out of the ground. I saw in an instant that he had had the stake out before that time, for all he had to do was to lift it up and it came out. He slipped his foot chain down over the tapering end of the stake and was free.

"Across the room, distant perhaps 90 feet or more from his place, were piled some sacks of grain, containing about 100 pounds each. Picking up the foot chain very carefully with his trunk, so that it would not rattle or jangle upon the floor, he began the most delicate, sinuous, gliding motion across the space that separated him from the grain I ever saw, and I never imagined an elephant could go so quietly. I crouched behind the piles of straw, afraid to move for fear he would hear me and stop.

"On he went, cautiously, slowly, but steadily, until he was within reaching distance of the sacked grain. Then he laid the chain down and picked up a bag of oats with his trunk. His journey back to the herd, 20 feet away, was performed even more cautiously than had been his advance, for he had to drag the chain without making a noise. All the time he held the sack of grain tightly in his trunk, and his mouth must have watered when he thought of the feast he was going to have. He reached the herd at last and went up to great big Babylon, who stood like a bronze statue, her massive sides looming up like the sides of a house in the gloom. Pete stopped, and Babylon, whom I had imagined fast asleep, took the oats. They got into the bag in a jiffy and then began a feast. Pete filled his mouth and munched away like a man eating dry crackers on a wager. He knew that his big companion in crime would get the most of the oats if he lost any time. Babylon put away at most half the oats at the first jump out of the bag, and poor little Pete, with his mouth full, looked at her with his watery little eyes, as much as to say, 'Oh, what a hog!' and gulped the oats down his little throat at the risk of choking to death.

"I thought it was about time to make a noise, just to disconcert them. I had seen enough to assure me that a hostler who had been discharged hadn't been instrumental in the disappearance of divers and sundry bags of oats, and I walked around toward the other end of the elephant house, I wondered what I should do to punish the thieves. The big one had had a painful operation performed a few months before, and I thought that any sight of the instruments that had been used at that time would give her a good fright. When I had reached my own sleeping room, I purposely made a noise and heard the shuffling sounds of sly little Pete as he shuffled back to his place. He picked his stake up, put it down in the ground, and would have put it through the ring in the chain if he had had time. What I came along, he was leaning against the wall asleep. I gave him a gentle prod, and he awakened suddenly, with that sleepy stare that a person has when awakened from slumber. But he soon knew that I was on to him, for when I ordered him to open his mouth, he didn't want to do it. He finally obeyed and there were the oats. His mouth was jammed full of them. I didn't do anything to him, but walked over to big Babylon. She was his partner in crime, but she was playing possum too.

"I had a good deal of trouble to wake her up and more to make her open her mouth. Much to her chagrin, I imagine, it was full of oats, and she had the empty sack closely rolled up and packed in with them. She was sheepish and ashamed, I assure you, if ever an elephant put on that expression. To punish her I ordered her to sit down and open her mouth and made a motion as if to pass a great pair of forceps into it which had been used during the operation I referred to. She shut her mouth and cried like a baby, and was so thoroughly frightened that she never thereafter again. But that sly little Pete, why, he is more trouble than the entire herd, and he just gets loose whenever he wants to."—St. Louis Globe-Dispatch.

Women as Soldiers.

"I do not see," said a clever woman, "why the newspapers should feel called upon to poke fun at the new law in Colorado which permits women to serve in the state militia. In time of battle women are just as necessary as men. Just wearing a uniform and shooting a gun are not all that constitute a soldier. What about women's place in the hospitals during time of war? Does it not require a brave heart and a strong nerve to wait on the wounded or dying? Is not a woman a soldier who can assist the surgeon as he amputates a limb or binds a fractured bone? Are not the Red Cross nurses soldiers? It seems to me that a woman will make just as good a soldier as a man and always find her place in time of war."

A LUCKY FIND.

Tale of a Valuable Watch That Was Lost on an Elevated Railroad.

"This watch in itself is a valuable one," said a New York business man as he took the timepiece from the peculiar looking fob in which he carries it, "but it had an adventure last week that gives it a still greater value to me. The fob is an heirloom, and, as you may see, would be apt to attract attention anywhere.

"One afternoon last week I was going up town on a crowded train on the Sixth avenue elevated. The train was so crowded that I was compelled to stand on a car platform close to the brake wheel. As the train was rounding the curve out of West Third street I took my watch from my pocket, removed it from the fob, and, after noting the time, shoved it back into the pocket. Instead of getting it into the pocket, however, it was on the outside, and as I let it go it fell. The guard saw it as it fell and reached out his foot to save it from going between the platforms, but failed, and down it went.

"I got off the train at Eighth street and ran back as fast as I could to the spot where the watch had dropped, having, I may of course say, not the slightest hope that the watch would be anywhere to be seen. When I reached the place, my heart almost jumped out of my throat, for there in the street, conspicuous among its surroundings, lay the fob. I picked it up. It was empty. No watch could I find anywhere.

"Some one has found it," was naturally my conclusion, and that was the last I ever expected to hear or see of it. "But as I walked back toward the Eighth street station I got to thinking about the matter differently. If any one had found the watch, why should he have left the fob? The more I thought of it the more I made up my mind that the watch hadn't been found. I boarded a train at Eighth street and went up town to the railroad headquarters. There I told of the singular thing that had happened to my watch, and the officer in charge told me that after the commission hours were over for the day the track walkers would start from Fifty-ninth street down the line, making their regular inspection of the rails and roadway, and he would instruct them to keep an eye out for the lost watch.

"But," said he, smiling, "I guess you will have to come to the conclusion, after all, that some one else will tell the time by it hereafter if it hasn't been smashed to pieces by the fall."

"Next day I went to the office. My watch was there. A track walker had discovered it by the light of his torch at midnight lying snugly on one of the girders or traces of the iron roadway beneath the track. The ring was sprung out of its fastening in the stem, and the watch was open. There was a dent on the case at the hinge. In falling the watch had struck in some mysterious way so that it had been forced open on the fob, which went on down to the street. Beyond the trifling damage mentioned the watch was not injured in the slightest. If there ever was a luckier find than that, I never heard of it."—New York Sun.

Man's Most Vulgar Habit.

"If men were compelled to wear skirts for a period, I think they would insist more than they now do that their fellow men should stop the nasty habit of spitting in public," writes Edward W. Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "There is no practice of man which is more disgusting to women than this disgusting habit. Women constantly complain of it, especially in our larger cities, where sometimes the sidewalks are scarcely fit for them to walk upon. They revolt at so doing, yet year in and year out the habit not only continues but increases, and the protection of cleanliness, to which every woman walking upon our streets has a perfect right, is denied her."

SPEAKER REED'S VIEWS.

Extracts From His Article on the Business Situation.

"All the symptoms of prosperity are here. Men are willing to lend money and sensible men are willing to take it and risk it in new enterprises. In a word, it looks like 1879."

"Every historic period of revival has been like this. Some event at the ripe moment happens, like the resumption of specie payments, the setting of money in motion by reduction of the interest on part of the national debt, the passage of a tariff bill, which rightly or wrongly, the people believe in. Human nature and human affairs, made ready for the change, have always done the rest."

"Another encouraging symptom is that the financial medicine men are now explaining in a low tone of voice why what they said in such loud tones last year was not so. This is the prelude to the utter silence which will fall upon them in due time, a silence which will be the signal that the world has settled one other financial problem in the only way it can be settled, and that is, in the minds of the people."

There is a Class of People.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—The day was given over to expert testimony in the Lutger trial yesterday and the attorneys for the defense and the witnesses for the state wrangled vigorously regarding the facts of the case and the value of the state's evidence. Last Month of the Tennessee Centennial and Industrial Exposition.

The month of October closes this greatest of all expositions ever held in the South, and next to the Columbian, the best ever held in this country. For the closing month special attractions have been arranged and the rates from all parts of the country have been made lower than ever before known. The location (Nashville, Tenn.) is on the main line of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, directly on its through car route between the north and south, and the trip in either direction via that city can be made as cheaply, if not cheaper, than via any other route. Ask your ticket agent for rates, or write to C. P. Atmore, General Passenger Agent Louisville, Ky., for rates and information.

To Care For Visitors.

From the many inquiries received regarding the Free Street Fair it is presumed that during the Fair week Seymour will be visited by a vast concourse of people.

As the hotels will be unable to accommodate all the visitors with lodging it is expedient that some other arrangement be made for the entertainment of those who remain with us over night.

Any citizen who is prepared to lodge one or more persons will please report to the management, who will take name and address and make arrangements accordingly.

DOMESTIC MARTYRS.

Lots of women suffer constantly, and seldom utter complaint.

Good men rarely know the pain endured by the women of their own household, or the efforts they make to appear cheerful and happy when they ought to be in bed, their suffering is really so great.

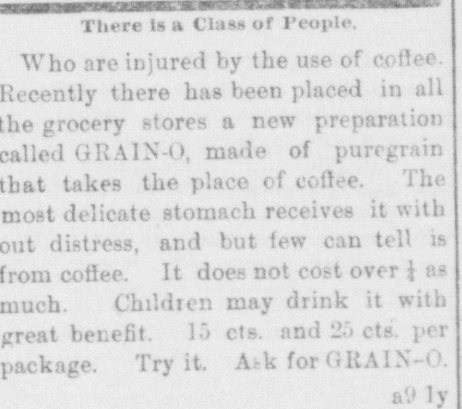

Our habits of life and dress tell sadly upon women's delicate organizations.

They ought to be told just where the danger lies, for their whole future may depend upon that knowledge, and how to overcome it.

There is no need of our describing the experiences of such women here, they are too well known by those who have suffered, and we will impress upon every one that these are the never-failing symptoms of serious womb trouble, and unless relieved at once, a life will be forfeited.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound never fails to relieve the distressing troubles above referred to; it has held the faith of the women of America for twenty years.

It gives tone to the womb, strengthens the muscles, banishes backache and relieves all pains incident to women's diseases.

The Klondyke Country and Colorado.

Are now the two principal gold mining fields in the world. We can give you information about both, but as the Klondyke Country will be impenetrable until next summer, why not go to Colorado this fall and look over the golden opportunities of that state.

It is cheaper and easier to go to Colorado, and we will venture dollars to doughnuts that more net money can be made in Colorado in twelve months, with less capital, than in the outskirts of the Arctic Circle during the same period, at forty times the expense.

Ask the nearest agent for the price of tickets to Denver, Leadville or Cripple Creek, and tell him to send you via Chicago and Omaha over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. in the through sleeping car from Chicago to Denver.

STORM AT THE FAIR

One Man Has His Skull Fractured and Two Others Injured.

FAILED TO GET AN INDICTMENT

Five-Year-Old Girl Dies of a Broken Heart—Two Counterfeiters Captured by Secret Service Officers—Two Young Ladies' Strange Disappearance From Home—Fatally Injured by a Cow.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—A heavy storm swept over the city late yesterday, but did comparatively small damage until it reached the fair grounds. At the latter place several exhibits were blown down, tents and telephone wires were wrecked. The race timers' stand was also blown over. When the storm struck the grandstand it was filled with dust and the structure trembled in the blast. Women screamed and men grasped for anything in sight for support.

Henry Hicks, in charge of the Jones fence exhibit of Columbus, O., was caught in his tent by a falling tree. His skull was fractured, shoulder dislocated and he suffered probably fatal internal injuries.

Nathan Wood of Parker, Ind., was badly bruised by falling timbers, and Frank Polones of Chicago was injured in the back.

A man and woman were seated in a buggy when the storm came up. The woman jumped from the buggy and started on the run. The man then left the vehicle to get her to return, but before he reached her a tree fell on the buggy, mashing it to splinters.

BROKEN HEART.

Five-Year-Old Girl's Grief Over the Death Of Her Sister.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 17.—Little Frances Brown is dead here, a victim of a broken heart, although but 5 years old. Last Sunday night her sister, Virginia, a little over 6 years of age, died of brain fever. Little Frances began crying and grieved incessantly, calling for her sister. She asked permission to see her sister after she had been placed in the coffin and when the lid was taken off little Frances wrapped her arms about the body and cried as if her heart would break.

Wednesday she became unconscious and in that condition talked of and cried for her sister until death came to her relief. Physicians pronounced it a case of broken heart.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

Two Young Ladies Leave Home and Their Parents Are Frantic.

UNIONDALE, Ind., Sept. 17.—There is much excitement here over the disappearance of Miss Elsie Zimmerman, daughter of the Methodist minister, and Alice Gaskell, daughter of a prominent farmer. The young ladies left home Monday afternoon, but gave no intimation of their flight. Miss Zimmerman wrote a postal card to Charles Taylor, a young man of the town, saying they were "going straight up," but this furnished no clue. Both are estimable young girls. Their parents are frantic with grief.

COUNTERFEITERS CAPTURED.

Major Carter Takes In a Photographer, a Farmer and an Outfit.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Sept. 17.—Major Carter, S. S. Porter and Al Gallagher, of the United States secret service, assisted by Sheriff Green, arrested H. A. W. Brown and Theodore Hansen of this city, charged with making and circulating counterfeit $2 and $5 bills. They also captured the entire outfit. Brown is a photographer and an alleged anarchist, while Hansen is a farmer's boy. About $40 of the stuff was found. The work is well done. The spurious money was to be circulated in Chicago. Other arrests may follow.

Saddleback Caterpillars.

WARREN, Ind., Sept. 17.—A specimen of the strange worm that has been feeding on the corn in this vicinity the last 10 days was sent to State Geologist Blatchley, who pronounces it the saddleback caterpillar, an insect rare in Indiana. He says it devours the foliage on oak and fruit trees, rosebushes and wild sunflowers, but heretofore has not proven a menace to crops.

Failed to Secure an Indictment.

DANVILLE, Ind., Sept. 17.—The grand jury has completed its investigation of the Boney story unless the friends of Hinshaw have more witnesses they want called. No indictment will be returned on the evidence, and the general opinion is that the incident is closed.

George Blevins Not Dead.

ENGLISH, Ind., Sept. 17.—Judge W. F. Richards, owner of the farm on which George Blevins lived, and where he and Frank Jones fought with knives last Monday, is in receipt of a letter telling him to get a new farm manager. This only reveals to the judge that Blevins is still alive.

"Big Spring" Failing.

LEAVENWORTH, Ind., Sept. 17.—The "Big spring," which is known as the largest spring in southern Indiana, is showing unquestionable signs of failure. The flow was formerly larger than an average sized man's body, but it is now less than six inches.

Fatally Injured by a Cow.

LINCOLNVILLE, Ind., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Dickey Reynolds, an aged woman, living here for the last 30 years, is dead of injuries sustained seven weeks ago while milking a cow. The animal threw her over and inflicted internal injuries.

Crazed From Chills.

PADUCAH, Ky., Sept. 14.—William Thackeray, a ship carpenter from Madison, Ind., attempted suicide here by cutting his throat three times and hacking himself over the head 11 times with a drawing knife. He had been having the chills and did not drink. He may die.

An Albino.

Mr. Horace T. Calver, who has been attracting attention on our streets today advertising Hubbs Sparagus Pills is one of those strange freaks of nature, an Albino. His hair which is long and heavy is perfectly white, while his mustache and beard are the same color. His skin is very fair and his eyes have the pink which distinguishes these people. He was born of English parents, both of whom were of dark complexion. Two of his brothers are Albinos. Mr. Calver has travelled all over the country and has had many remarkable experiences. He will give a paper tearing exhibition in Peter's drug store window this evening at 7 o'clock tearing tancy designs from paper with his fingers.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yields to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at W. F. Peter's drug store.

W. J. Houchen will return this evening from a visit to the Nashville centennial.

John R. McLean's Great Newspaper.
Without a single exception, there is beyond doubt no greater or more popular newspaper in the United States than the Cincinnati Enquirer; and a more successful publisher than its proprietor, Mr. John R. McLean. The old-time prices for the Daily Enquirer have been maintained, and its circulation largely increased each year; hard times and cheaper journals failing to arrest its onward march and high appreciation of the public for its true worth and merit.
The Weekly Enquirer at beginning of the campaign year was offered at 50 cents a year, and its circulation increased by the addition of over 200,000 new subscribers; the most substantial and coveted testimonial a publisher could desire.
When asked for the secret of such success, Mr. McLean frankly answers: The Enquirer has no opinions to force upon its patrons, it simply prints the facts and tells the truth that the reader may form his own opinions. By maintaining the price of the paper, more news and greater variety can be furnished, and every class of business interests catered to, which a cheaper journal cannot afford.
The very liberal support given the Enquirer by the public at large, makes incumbent upon the management to serve it faithfully with zeal and enterprise in minor matters as well as in those of greater magnitude.

ONE OF TWO WAYS.

The bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble or some sort. The error is easily made and may be as easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty-four hours; sediment or settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. If you need any medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail. Mention the REPUBLICAN and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. TRICKY BABY PETE.

HE COMMITTED THE THEFTS FOR WHICH A MAN WAS DISCHARGED.

A Midnight Adventure in the Winter Quarters of an Elephant Herd—How Sly Pete Got Away From His Stake and Stole a Bag of Oats.

Pete is the baby elephant of one of the big circus herds. During his confinement in winter quarters he played a trick on his keeper, which the man relates as follows:

"Pete is a tiny little fellow and does not weigh more than 600 or 800 pounds, but I actually believe he would eat as many pounds of oats if he had access to them. The elephant house was dark one night, and I supposed every one of the animals was sound asleep, when my attention was attracted by a subdued, rasping noise, apparently coming from the farther end of the big herd. Instead of walking down in front of them all, I went around and came in at the other end. Hiding behind some bales of straw, I peered cautiously over to where the little rascal was chained, and there he was, carefully lifting his stake out of the ground. I saw in an instant that he had had the stake out before that time, for all he had to do was to lift it up and it came out. He slipped his foot chain down over the tapering end of the stake and was free.

"Across the room, distant perhaps 30 feet or more from his place, were piled some sacks of grain, containing about 100 pounds each. Picking up the foot chain very carefully with his trunk, so that it would not rattle or jangle upon the floor, he began the most delicate, sidious, gliding motion across the space that separated him from the grain. I never saw, and I never imagined an elephant could go so quietly. I crouched behind the bales of straw, afraid to move for fear he would hear me and stop.

"On he went, cautiously, slowly, but steadily, until he was within reaching distance of the sacked grain. Then he laid the chain down and picked up a bag of oats with his trunk. His journey back to the herd, 20 feet away, was performed even more cautiously than had been his advance, for he had to drag the chain without making a noise. All the time he held the sack of grain tightly in his trunk, and his mouth must have watered when he thought of the feast he was going to have. He reached the herd at last and went up to great big Babylon, who stood like a bronze statue, her massive sides looming up like the sides of a house in the gloom. Pete stopped, and Babylon, whom I had imagined fast asleep, took the oats. They got into the bag in a jiffy and then began a feast. Pete filled his mouth and munched away like a man eating dry crackers on a wager. He knew that his big companion in crime would get the most of the oats if he lost any time. Babylon put away at most half the oats at the first jump out of the box, and poor little Pete, with his mouth full, looked at her with his watery little eyes, as much as to say, 'Oh, what a hog!' and gulped the oats down his little throat at the risk of choking to death.

"I thought it was about time to make a noise, just to disconcert them. I had seen enough to assure me that a hostler who had been discharged hadn't been instrumental in the disappearance of divers and sundry bags of oats, and I walked around toward the other end of the elephant house, I wondered what I should do to punish the thieves. The big one had had a painful operation performed a few months before, and I thought that any sight of the instruments that had been used at that time would give her a good fright. When I had reached my own sleeping room, I purposely made a noise and heard the shuffling sounds of sly little Pete as he shuffled back to his place. He picked his stake up, put it down in the ground, and would have put it through the ring in the chain if he had had time. When I came along, he was leaning against the wall asleep. I gave him a gentle prod, and he awakened suddenly, when I saw that a person has been awakened from slumber. But he knew that I was on to him, for when I ordered him to open his mouth, he didn't want to do it. He finally opened and there were the oats. His mouth was jammed full of them. I didn't do anything to him, but walked over to great big Babylon. She was his partner in crime, but she was playing possum too. 'I had a good deal of trouble to wake her up and make her open her mouth. Much to her chagrin, I imagine, it was full of oats, and she had the empty sack closely rolled up and packed in with them. She was sneezing and ashamed, I assure you, if ever an elephant put on that expression. To punish her I ordered her to sit down and open her mouth and made a motion as if to pass a great pair of forceps into it which had been used during the operation I referred to. She shut her mouth and cried like a baby, and was so thoroughly frightened that she never tried again. But that sly little Pete—why, he is more trouble than the entire herd, and he just gets loose whenever he wants to.'—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Women as Soldiers.

"I do not see," said a clever woman, "why the newspapers should feel called upon to poke fun at the new law in Colorado which permits women to serve in the state militia. In time of battle women are just as necessary as men. Just wearing a uniform and shooting a gun are not all that constitute a soldier. What about women's place in the hospitals during time of war? Does it not require a brave heart and a strong nerve to wait on the wounded or dying? Is not a woman a soldier who can assist the surgeon as he amputates a limb or binds a fractured bone? Are not the Red Cross nurses soldiers? It seems to me that a woman will make just as good a soldier as a man and always find her place in time of war."

Cascara stimulates liver, kidneys, and bowels. Never sicken, weakens or gripe. Sold by all druggists.

A LUCKY FIND.

Tale of a Valuable Watch That Was Lost on an Elevated Railroad.

"This watch in itself is a valuable one," said a New York business man as he took the timepiece from the peculiar looking fob in which he carries it, "but it had an adventure last week that gives it a still greater value to me. The fob is an heirloom, and, as you may see, would be apt to attract attention anywhere.

"One afternoon last week I was going up town on a crowded train on the Sixth Avenue elevated. The train was so crowded that I was compelled to stand on a car platform close to the brake wheel. As the train was rounding the curve out of West Third street I took my watch from my pocket, removed it from the fob, and, after noting the time, shoved it back into the pocket. Instead of getting it into the pocket, however, it was on the outside, and as I let it go it fell. The guard saw it as it fell and reached out his foot to save it from going between the platforms, but failed, and down it went.

"I got off the train at Eighth street and ran back as fast as I could to the spot where the watch had dropped, having, I may of course say, not the slightest hope that the watch would be anywhere to be seen. When I reached the place, my heart almost jumped out of my throat, for there in the street, conspicuous among its surroundings, lay the fob. I picked it up. It was empty. No watch could I find anywhere.

"Some one has found it," was my natural conclusion, and that was the last I ever expected to hear or see of it. "But as I walked back toward the Eighth street station I got to thinking about the matter differently. If any one had found the watch, why should he have left the fob? The more I thought of it the more I made up my mind that the watch hadn't been found. I boarded a train at Eighth street and went up town to the railroad headquarters. There I told of the singular thing that had happened to my watch, and the officer in charge told me that after the commission hours were over for the day the track walkers would start from Fifty-ninth street down the line, making their regular inspection of the track and roadway, and he would instruct them to keep an eye out for the lost watch.

"But," said he, smiling, "I guess you will have to come to the conclusion, after all, that some one else will tell the time by it hereafter if it hasn't been smashed to pieces by the fall."

"Next day I went to the office. My watch was there. A track walker had discovered it by the light of his torch at midnight lying snugly on one of the girders or braces of the iron roadway beneath the track. The ring was sprung out of its fastening in the stone, and the watch was open. There was a dent on the case at the hinge. In falling the watch had struck in some mysterious way so that it had been forced down on the fob, which went on down to the street. Beyond the trifling damage mentioned the watch was not injured in the slightest. If there ever was a luckier find than that, I never heard of it."—New York Sun.

Man's Most Vulgar Habit.

"If men were compelled to wear skirts for a period, I think they would insist more than they now do that their fellow men should stop the nasty habit of spitting in public," writes Edward W. Beck in The Ladies' Home Journal. "There is no practice of man which is more disgusting to women than this disgusting habit. Women constantly complain of it, especially in our larger cities, where sometimes the sidewalks are scarcely fit for them to walk upon. They revolt at the practice, and they are right in so doing, yet year in and year out the habit not only continues but increases, and the protection of cleanliness, to which every woman walking upon our streets has a perfect right, is denied her."
